

A Little About Me

I'm from Beaverton and I attended Southridge High School. I didn't know I was going to Oregon State until about halfway through my senior year of high school when I toured the campus. Something clicked and I realized this is the place for me.

I consider myself a passionate person. I have few hobbies, but the hobbies I pursue are things that really intrigue me. It's normal to find me up late searching through soundcloud or YouTube for the latest music. Most of my favorite artists are kids younger than me with minimal social media followings who produce unique sounds. My background in music started when I was 7 and my parents bought me a piano. From there I developed a taste in hip hop, rap, jazz, r&b, classical and many more genres. I have thousands of songs on my computer that would take a lifetime to listen to. I'm always down to meet new people, and I'm certainly always willing to have conversations regarding music. I'm a creative person and think I have a lot to bring to ASOSU.
