

I was born in Portland two years before the turn of the millennium. Oregon has always been home. Regardless of where life takes me, Oregon will always be home. After attending Roosevelt High School I found myself unsure of where to go, but ultimately I decided to write the next chapter of my life at Oregon State. Since coming to Oregon State I have felt at home, and have fallen in love with the atmosphere of the campus, and the surrounding city of Corvallis.