BIOGRAPHY

My name is Hevani Fifita. I am currently a second-year Philosophy major with a minor in Political Science here at Oregon State. I work at Diversity & Cultural Engagement in the Student Experience Center as a Leadership Liaison and I love what I do. There, I help create a climate on campus that is inclusive as well as equitable. Some extracurricular activities I'm involved in include the Pacific Islander Club and the Black Student Union. I also intend on starting a podcast with a few others in the Spring. When I'm not at school or work, I enjoy going to concerts and finding new music to listen to. After I graduate, I plan on going to law school. I don't know what type of law I want to study but I hope to figure that out soon. Something very important to me is my family. They have a long history at Oregon State and it's something I'm very proud of. They are one of the many reasons I enjoy being a part of this university.
